

A JAMMIN' Night of Music & Fun

January 2010

Greetings CKI!

I am pretty pumped to say that most college campuses have student bands, choirs, or people that just love music. Why not combine everything into 1 event and help with hunger at the same time? So, now I have you thinking...hmmm...

The solution - hold an Open Jam with the admission price being a jar of jam or jelly (other non-perishable foods would work too.)

It's really simple and all your club would have to do is organize the line-up. Ask and get members of your school and campus community to come and either play in a mini-concert or just come and listen with every kind of music genres out there. Post around campus when the 'Jam' is going to be and make sure you put that the admission price is the jar of jam or can of food. After the evening, take the food collected to your local food pantry.

Remember to count your food in poundage so you can report it as a Service Initiative on your monthly report forms.

I am sure that this will be a great evening for all.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Yours,

Toby Markham
